Early Stages and Canal Construction 1700-1850

4 The navigations genesis lies in the need to connect inland waterways with the port of Liverpool Early maps included as image 1 reveal a series of interconnected streams and canals initially focused on easing navigation and boosting trade This era saw significant engineering feats including the construction of locks and the deepening of river channels The construction of the Bridgewater Canal an influential predecessor set a precedent that shaped the development of the Mersey and Irwell

Year	Project Description	Impact
1720s	First stretches	Improved navigation on the Irwell and Mersey
1770s	Completion of main canals	Full connection between Liverpool and inland waterways
1800s	Extension Improvements	New locks widening of channels Enhanced capacity and efficiency supporting industrial growth
1850-1950	Arrival of steam power	Steamboats initially replacing barges on larger sections of the waterways dramatically reduced transit times
1950-Present	Decline and Revival	Gradual decline in the usage of the canals largely due to the dominance of road and rail transport The rise of the automobile and containerized shipping dealt a serious blow to barge traffic However a renewed appreciation for canals and waterways emerged as a component of urban renewal projects
